BRIOTIX HEALTH present at National ErgoExpo for 2023 Conference

CENTENNIAL, CO – October 30th, 2023

Briotix Health experts Kristianne Egbert and Julie Landis will be speaking at the National ErgoExpo on November 8th. “Industrial Ergonomic Assessments – Building for Success” will explore the impact of musculoskeletal disorders, the specifics of industrial ergonomic assessments, and the approach and implementation of solutions to these pieces. Sample reports will be provided to all attendees to help better understand the next steps in implementing these vital pieces.

“Understanding the differences between industrial assessments is extremely important,” says Kristianne Egbert, Senior Corporate Ergonomist with Briotix Health. “We discuss the problems clients are trying to solve and the end goal they have in mind to differentiate between the options out there. In understanding exactly what the end goal of an industrial ergo assessment is and understanding the key components of an industrial ergo assessment report, safety professionals will be one step closer to solving their ergonomic issues.”

Julie Landis, the Vice President of Business Development at Briotix Health, a licensed and board-certified PT, brings clinical expertise and strong practical experience to every setting. Kristianne Egbert is a Certified Professional Ergonomist and manages the industrial ergonomics service line with Briotix Health.
