BRIOTIX HEALTH Releases New Information on Four-Year Study over Reducing MSD Claims and OSHA Recordables

CENTENNIAL, CO – July 21, 2023

A mid-sized manufacturing and distribution plant reduced their Musculoskeletal Disorder (MSD) injury rates to zero within the span of a year and maintained that rate for three additional years after rolling out Briotix Health's Industrial Sports Medicine™ (ISM) solutions.

The customized injury prevention program resulted in zero MSD workers' compensation claims and OSHA recordables. Over the course of the four-year study, with ongoing program refinement provided by Briotix Health, the plant consistently maintained these rates.

To reduce injury rates, Briotix Health implemented a variety of strategies including personalized injury prevention coaching, one-on-one discomfort screenings, and on-site. Additionally, specialized training and ergonomic assessments educated employees on the safest way to complete job tasks and reduced injury risk.

"As businesses adapt to new working conditions and styles it is essential to understand risk factors that arise from just the daily activities of employees," said Lorrell Zegarelli, Senior Client Manager. "Our providers take pride in their ability to identify and then produce solutions, both immediate and long-term, for every workplace."

With Briotix Health's comprehensive ISM solution and expert providers, the plant consistently remained at zero MSD injuries over the span of four years. The benefits of a long-term MSD solution revolutionized workplace health and safety for this plan, improving the lives of their employees.
